Dear Hiring Manager,

If you are seeking an enthusiastic and detail-oriented worker, I am confident I can meet your needs. As a student in my 3rd and last year of bachelor's degree focusing on Computer Science at RMIT I would love the opportunity to spend the time contributing to the success of this company while learning more about them.

I offer great Data Analysis, Programming, Analytical, Excellent Communication skills and a demonstrated commitment to the job. I am skilled in diverse job areas including customer service, and as well those extra computing skills as I am a computer science student. This could be seen in my resume. I think I should be a perfect candidate for this job, as I have got the programming skills required, I have done software testing which will be useful. I think I bring all the skills and experience required for this job. Hopefully, my enthusiasm and abilities will allow me to make a positive contribution to this company in this role while continuing to develop my skills and experience.

Please see my attached resume for greater details regarding my skills, experience, and education. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Muhammad Tariq
